About Chris

Chris Behnke once spent a caffeine-soaked weekend in his garage assembling 600 custom PCs — and still swears duct tape is a love language. Since then he's launched a dozen ventures, written best-selling books, and created the NEXUS Profile, sparking "aha!" moments from Silicon Valley to global leadership forums.

When Chris isn't mapping human wiring for executives, he's piloting small planes, binge-testing espresso roasts, or refereeing the creative chaos of four remarkable kids, a visionary wife named Prudence, and one attention-seeking dog named Buckley. (Negotiations for a future mini-pig are ongoing.)

Chris's superpower? Handing leaders the permission slip to stop fearing they've missed their moment and start thriving in it — unlocking God-designed purpose, healthy culture, and growth that actually matters.
